NO ADJOURNMENT.

One thing was settled decisively in Wednesday's session of the Convention—there will be no adjournment until the new Constitution is framed. Judge Tourgee introduced a resolution to that effect. It was voted down by a vote of 59 to 57. The body will now go to work earnestly.

Full account of Wednesday's session will be found in our local columns.

DR. RANSOM'S VOTE.

The contest for the Presidency of the Convention, extended far into the second day, was settled by one of the candidates voting for himself. Dr. Ransom ended a struggle which might have been prolonged indefinitely, at the sacrifice of much personal feeling, and at the risk of incurring much obloquy.

It is but just to say that Dr. Ransom fully appreciated the delicacy of his position, and resisted as long as was reasonable, the appeals of his friends to forget that he was Dr. Ransom merely, and recognize the fact that by refusing to vote, he was stifling the voice of the county of which he was the delegate. The Democratic party put him forth as their candidate and unflinchingly clung to him. It was overstrained delicacy, if to preserve the appearance of modesty, he had remained silent, or continued to cast a complimentary vote, and thus retarded organization, and increased the expenses of the Convention.

Dr. Ransom is entitled to the more credit, inasmuch as his vote is sure to bring down upon him unfriendly criticism. It was a severe self-sacrifice which finds its reward in the consciousness of having solved a difficult question, and led the way in the work which is to start North Carolina in a new career of prosperity.

MISSISSIPPI TROUBLES.

And now comes the reports of a bloody collision between the whites and the blacks in this negro-trodden State, in which as usual, the weight of punishment falls most heavily upon the black. The most trustworthy accounts represent the origin of the troubles to have been in the insolent exercise of authority, altogether without warrant, by a negro official over a party of white men, naturally resenting and leading to violence, and followed by scenes of savage atrocity and cowardly treachery on the part of the blacks with a parallel only in the action of unreclaimed savages. The consequences were natural. The negroes, armed with the first success, rushed to arms and to murder; the whites, eager to inflict punishment were prompt in action, and the result is told.

Government officers or the spot see no cause for the interference of the government. They seem to admit that the whites proceed with just cause.

But the National Republican will never be content until the whites submit quietly to be slaughtered, or until the dream of the Georgia insurgents is fulfilled, that the bottom rail shall be on top, and the negro lord it over the white man as the superior. The whites are not ready for that, and the scenes in Mississippi may be repeated a thousand times to prevent it.

But there need be no trouble with the negroes—there will be none, except under the investigation of those who use the negro as a political tool, or who wage with such hate against rebels of the South that they are led to see the white race of the exterminated from the face of earth.

GEN. CLINGMAN'S ADDRESS.

We publish the following letter of Hon. Matt. W. Carpenter of Wisconsin, addressed to Gen. Clingman, thanking him for the address delivered at Seawannee. The tribute is a gratifying and valuable one, for whatever Mr. Carpenter's political record be, he stood in the U. S. Senate recognized as without a peer in debate, and with a mind cultivated to the nicest point of official acumen.

This letter is one of many from distinguished men of other States recognizing the pre-eminent beauty and power of Gen. Clingman's production, which has done more to fix universally the fame of the author and the literary claims of North Carolina than any other production with which we are acquainted.

We hope, with Mr. Carpenter, that Gen. Clingman may often be tempted into the same pleasant pastime.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30, 1875.

Gen. T. L. Clingman:

DEAR SIR:—I have just received and read with infinite delight, your address at the University of the South, August the 5th. If you sent it, I thank you for that; if not, I thank you for having made it, so some other person could send it. I will not say it is eloquent, for small men claim to be eloquent; but it is grand. After finishing it, I felt as if I often have in reading some splendid passages in Shakespeare. I wish I could imitate you in the theme, and make you do so more.

Very Respectfully,

MATT. W. CARPENTER.

CALIFORNIA ELECTION.

The telegrams of Tuesday night bring the intelligence of the sweeping Democratic victory in California. Every member of Congress, and the whole Legislature is Democratic. The Independents elect a few municipal officers in the city of San Francisco. The Republicans carry nothing in the State!

We commend this result to those who have been so confident that the tide has turned, and that Republicanism is emerging from the cloud; particularly to those in North Carolina who accept the result of the election for Convention as evidence of the growing favor of that party, and to none more urgently than to those of our own party who are staggered by the fierce blow the party appeared to have received. But that blow did not come from the enemy, but was inflicted by ourselves. We stand apparently weakened, because we have permitted our opponents to bind us.

Let the courage, the determined purpose, the unanimity that has marked the proceedings of the Democratic members of the Convention so far, infuse their influence throughout the State. Let it lead to thorough organization, for there is the weakness of the party. The Democratic strength is unimpaired, but it must be concentrated to be effective. That done, and the Presidential election will show that the Republicans have drawn false conclusions from the results of the election for Convention.

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.

A system deemed, under a growing depravity of political morality, perfectly legitimate in northern legislation, and practiced with unblushing effrontery in this State under the wild licentiousness of the disgraceful period of '68, when the negro politicians first came into market, and when the adventurous carpet-bagger had gotten possession of the keys of the treasury, has, after long disuse under the restoration of a purer principle of action, obtruded its brazen front again upon the scene. Men are again considered marketable; principles are again considered purchasable, and the dearest interests of the State are put in the balance against money or the promise of reward.

We conceive that no greater outrage has been offered to the State of North Carolina than the attempt to purchase the votes of those to whom were entrusted the reform and purification of the fundamental law. It was an attempt to poison that law at its very fountain head; to infuse into its principles of evil which would permeate through every fibre of the body politic, and make that a vehicle of disease and corruption which should have been alive with health giving elements.

The attempt by members of the Republican party to secure the votes of members of the Convention supposed to be doubtful, by offers of money, of place, or of honors is openly charged. The charges are too specific to be the creations of rumor.

The Convention will owe it to its self respect to investigate a subject in which the character of the whole body is involved, and to bring to exposure and punishment those who have attacked the honor of a body peculiarly concerned in the preservation of its integrity. It must show to the State and the Country that the days of '68 can never be repeated in North Carolina.

ORGANIZATION.

The election of a Democratic President to the Convention having demonstrated the power of that party, it can now safely proceed to carry out the objects for which the Convention was called. And the unity, the harmony and the intelligence with which the members of that party have acted in the preliminary steps towards organization, make it certain almost that no divisions among them will impede the work before them. The deep settled purpose, cherished since 1868, and only postponed for reasons of policy, to remedy most glaring and intolerable defects of the Canby Constitution is now within the reach of practicability.

The Convention contains men of mark of both parties. Among the Republicans are gentlemen of learning, experience and character; they cannot fail to be sensible of the evils so patent to the Democratic party. These gentlemen, unable now, if they were so disposed, to carry out the destructive measures foreshadowed by the extremists of their own party in the event that they had the control of the Convention, may be ready to unite with the Democrats in the formation of a perfect Constitution. Their own sincere convictions accept the deficiencies of the present one. Their own intelligence recognizes the imperative need of amendments. Their own interests and their love of their State would lead them to accept the present opportunity. It is not probable that anything extreme will be proposed, nothing upon which the people of the whole State and of both parties cannot agree to accept.

While asking nothing from the Republicans, and feeling confident in the ability of the Democrats to carry through their own measures, yet we can ask co-operation in the adoption of such measures as have the good of all for their object without reference to the aggrandizement of one party or the other. As North Carolinians, both parties, can, if they will, work upon a common ground, since the intelligence of both parties recognizes the same defects of the Constitution under which we now are compelled to exist.

Another Difficulty that Had no "Kix-kix" in it.

And now we have the truth about the killing of eight negroes at New Hope church, in Noxubee county, Mississippi, which was telegraphed to us and sent North by the Associated Press in such a manner as to leave the inference to be drawn that it was "another Democratic outrage." We learn from the Atlanta Constitution that it did not grow out of a quarrel between a negro and a white man as stated in the press dispatch. No white men were connected in it, except possibly as part of a posse summoned by the sheriff of the county, which posse included a white man as stated in the press dispatch. No white men were connected in it, except possibly as part of a posse summoned by the sheriff of the county, which posse included a white man as stated in the press dispatch.

Mr. Jefferson Davis has received a letter from Mr. J. B. Beresford Hope, a Member of Parliament, accompanied by photographs of Foley's statue of Stonewall Jackson. Mr. Hope was an outspoken friend of the South during the war, and it was mainly through his efforts that the money for the statue was raised.

Twenty-six years ago when a Bohemian Jew wished to stop at the mining town of Pridzbom, in Bohemia, he had to wait for a long time. He could not stay longer without official permission. At present there is in the town a well conducted Jewish congregation which has the good will of the Christian residents.

NOON DISPATCHES.

General Ames Notifies the Government of Lawlessness in Mississippi.—He Asks Advice.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The following dispatch was received at the Executive Mansion last night from Gov. Ames, of Mississippi:

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 7, 1875.

To His Excellency U. S. Grant, President, Washington, D. C.

SIR:—Domestic violence in its most aggravated form exists in certain parts of this State. On the evening of the first instant, unauthorized and illegal armed bodies overthrew the civil authorities of Yazoo county, and took possession of said county, from which the sheriff, the peace officer of the county, was compelled to flee for safety and is still a refugee. The sheriff of this State, reports that since the 4th inst., he has been unable, after every effort, to maintain the peace and protect right. He reports various murders by unauthorized armed bodies who are scouring the county. Warren county is also reported as being in a state of terrorism from the demonstrations of still other unauthorized armed bodies, and a feeling of insecurity pervades in other counties of the State. After careful examination of all reports, I find myself compelled to appeal to the general government for aid and the means of giving that protection to which every American citizen is entitled. I do not now make formal application under the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, but telegraph you to know if you can and will regard the proclamation issued by you in December last on the application of the Legislature of this State is still in force. The immediate action cannot be overstated. If your proclamation of December last is not in force I will at once make a formal application under the provisions of the Constitution of the United States.

ADALBERT AMES, Mr. Luckey the Private Secretary to the President immediately sent the above dispatch to the President at Long Branch, and a reply was received, directing him to submit the despatch to the Attorney General and ask for his advice and answer Ames as to whether the proclamation of last year could be construed as now in force. The telegrams were handed to the Attorney General last night and this morning that officer submitted to the President his decision that the proclamation of December last could not be construed as now in force. This opinion was communicated to Gov. Ames as directed by the President in the following dispatch:

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 8, 1875.

GOV. ADALBERT AMES, JACKSON, Miss. The President submitted your despatch yesterday asking if the proclamation of December last is still in force to the Attorney General who decides that it is not in force. I notify you of his decision by direction of the President. Signed, LEVI P. LUCKEY, Secretary.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

Gov. Ames Calls upon the President for Help.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The following telegram was received at the Executive Mansion this evening and immediately forwarded to the President at Long Branch by Mr. Luckey his Private Secretary:

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 8, 1875.

To the President U. S. Grant, Washington, D. C.

Domestic violence prevails in various parts of this State beyond the power of the State authorities to suppress.

The Legislature cannot be convened in time to meet the emergency. I therefore in accordance with section four article four of the Constitution of the U. S., which provides that the United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of Government, and shall protect each of them against invasion and on application of the Legislature or of the executive, when the Legislature cannot be convened, against domestic violence, make this my application for such aid from the Federal Government as may be necessary to restore peace to the State and protect its citizens.

ADALBERT AMES, Governor.
